

Portail de l'éducation de Historica Canada

The Battle of Queenston Heights: Heritage Minute

Queenston.jpg 71.82 KB

In May 1812, Major General Isaac Brock, the commander of British forces in Upper Canada, visited the Six Nations chiefs at "Brant's Ford" (near presentday Brantford, Ontario) to enlist their help. Brock knew that their support would be crucial to protect the vast Upper Canadian frontier if the United States declared war, which they did in June 1812.

Watch the Minute!